This is a fast paced course that will push attending officers to a new level of proficiency while giving them additional combat skills. Attending officers will learn better, more efficient ways to engage targets using light and angles to their benefit, along with additional speed and accuracy. As in all of our courses, both live fire and force on force drilling will be used to test the combat skills of participants. Our goal in this course is to provide additional skills, polish existing ones and allow the operator to gain additional confidence and an inoculation to combat by using their skills in safe force-on-force environments.

Some of the topics included in this course are:
